Million Gather For End Of Congress

MUNDELEIN CROWDS BREAK ALL RECORDS AS SERVICE CLOSES

Faithful Suffer Under Hot Sun At
Exercises

MUNDELEIN, Ill., June 24.—A singing, praying multitude of 1,000,000 people gathered together from all lands of the earth today answered the age old question, "if Christ returned to earth, what recognition would be given Him."

In a babel of tongues, like of which has never before been heard in the new world, this great throng gave honor to the Blessed Eucharist, which they believe is the actual living Christ. It was a demonstration surpassing any tribute ever paid the world's conquerors.

Banked on either side of a three mile "Via Gloria"—the road of glory—circling a beautiful inland lake and reaching far back into the wooded area that shelters this seminary, prince, prelate and laymen participated in this most magnificent of religious spectacles.

In sheer magnitude alone, this demonstration shattered every existing record.

The number of persons, the distance from which they came as pilgrims, the length of the procession and the number of actual participants outdid any ovation in history.

The Seminary grounds, set down like medieval monastery and surrounded by the bustling civilization of twentieth century America were so densely packed at points of interest that it was impossible for many to sit down.

Under a warming sun they stood reverently, singing and chanting in honor of their universal King. And still they came, thousands upon thousands, thousands they marched double quick time and twelve abreast up the roads that led from the railroad station.

Traffic experts estimated that 400,000 had arrived by train since sun rise and another 500,000 came by automobile. Thousands had reached the grounds yesterday afternoon and during the night, camping out under the stars to await the great climax of the congress.

But it was not in size alone that today's spectacle paid honor to the Eucharistic king. It was the almost unbelievable reverence displayed by so great a congregation of people that attracted favorable comment from the princes of the church.

No shouting and loud demonstrations; no cursing of police officers who struggled valiantly to keep the crowds within bounds.

But everywhere there was singing of the praises of God. Everywhere there was praying and thanksgiving.

Little children joyously singing the age old chants of the church of their fathers were everywhere. The great babel of voices was stilled almost immediately as the procession of clergymen started moving from the chapel and the princes of the church took their places on Cardinal thrones which flanked the mammoth specially constructed, outdoor altar.

John, Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate to the Eucharistic Congress took his place on a throne one step higher than the others, signifying his high ranking as personal representative of Pope Pius XI.

Clouds, fleecy and white—the color of purity—appeared in the sky as the services were started. They brought welcome relief to the vast congregation which had been suffering under the hot sun. A bit of a breeze came up and tossed out the flags from their high standards.

The crowd pressed forward as fresh thousands were unloaded at the station just without the seminary grounds and sought in vain to reach positions from which to view the spectacle.

Checkers, who counted the crowd, said that 800,000 people were scattered along the route of procession before services started. Another 200,000 packed the roads in all directions.

"A million people is too conservative an estimate," said John Pendergast, who was in charge of the detail of Chicago police aiding in handling the crowd.

"The million number will be exceeded," he said.

REMOVAL OF OFFICIALS DEMANDED BY CRABBE

Asks Governor To Start Ouster Proceedings Against
Harper, Youngblood And Hogsett On Charges Of Graft

COLUMBUS, O., June 24.—Attorney General C. C. Crabbe today demanded removal proceedings be instituted against State Welfare Director John E. Harper, John T. Hogsett, chief agriculturist of the department and J. B. Youngblood, Harper's consulting engineer.

Crabbe's demand was submitted to Governor Vic Donahey and was the result of charges of graft and collusion in connection with the proposed purchase of a site for the new northeastern Ohio institution for the feeble minded.

Only yesterday the governor asked the prosecutor of Huron and Portage counties and previously asked the prosecutor of Wayne County to conduct grand jury inquiries of negotiations carried on in the various counties looking to the purchase of a site.

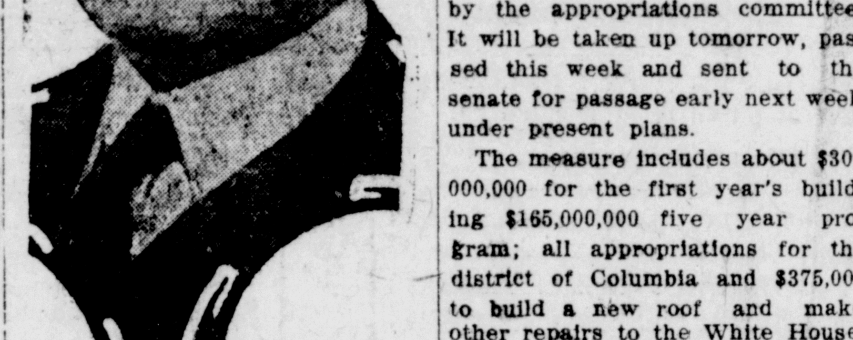

"If there was graft or collusion, find the guilty and exonerate the innocent," the Governor wrote the prosecutors.

COLUMBUS, O., June 24.—Personal investigation has convinced Prosecutor Britt Johnson of Portage County there has been no attempted graft or collusion in connection with the proposed purchase in Portage County of a site for the new state institution for the feeble minded, he said, in a telegram to Governor Donahey today.

The telegram was in response to a request from the Governor that Johnson and the prosecutors of Huron and Wayne counties conduct grand jury investigations in their respective counties, of charges of graft in connection with the purchases.

The state board of control convened again today to consider selection of the site.

When Shreve returned the bonds had vanished and police today were without clues to the identity of the thieves.

PRIMARY PROBES INVESTIGATE REPORT BREWERS RAISED FUND

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The senate primary investigating committee expected to find out today whether Pennsylvania brewers raised a fund of their own in the $3,000,000 senatorial race.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League has promised to furnish substantiation of his charge that those who desired modification of the Volstead act had accumulated a private purse to aid the wet ticket.

WIFE SLAYER WILL BE ELECTROCUTED

OHIO STATE PENITENTIARY, CLEVELAND, June 24.—Unless the governor or the state board of clemency intervenes, Frank Liska, wife slayer, will be electrocuted here tonight.

The governor's office, it was understood, has turned a deaf ear to his plea.

The board of clemency was expected to announce its decision at noon after considering evidence purporting to show that Liska killed his wife at the woman's own request.

Mrs. Liska was slain last year. She was choked to death and her body subsequently was found in the ruins of a burned chicken coop.

Liska asserted his wife had been unfaithful and that the woman, seized with remorse, asked him to dispose of her. The state charged he killed her during a jealous rage.

Liska, an Austrian who came to America several years ago, was calm this morning as the board of clemency deliberated his fate.

HAUGEN BILL FIGHT NEARING CLIMAX

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The long fight over farm relief reached a climax today as the Dawes-McNary-Haugen bill, an entirely new legislative plan whereby farmers hope to market their surplus products at a profit, came before the senate for final action.

The bill giving federal farm board broad powers to buy and withhold surplus production of cotton, corn, wheat and hogs from the market when the surplus threatens to reduce prices below "reasonable levels" was scheduled to come to a vote shortly after 1 p. m.

There was the possibility that Vice President Dawes, who braved President Coolidge's displeasure to sponsor the Haugen bill, will be compelled to cast the deciding vote for the measure.

OHIO PENITENTIARY REMODELING URGED

Committee Of Physicians Recommends To Governor
Plans To Improve Health And Sanitation Conditions At Prison

COLUMBUS, June 24.—The state penitentiary here will be remodeled extensively to "relieve generally unhealthy surroundings and bad ventilation" if recommendations made to Governor Donahey by a committee of physicians are carried out.

The committee was commissioned several months ago to investigate conditions at the prison and report in full, with recommendations to the governor.

As submitted the report contains the following specific suggestions:

- 1—Complete overhauling of the lighting and plumbing system.
- 2—Demolishing of the two cell blocks and replacing them with new and sanitary blocks, or else complete overhauling of the old blocks so they will be sanitary.
- 3—Construction of at least one new cell block with plenty of sunlight and air circulation to provide properly ventilated room for the inmates.
- 4—Replacing of present workshops with new, well lighted and modern shops.
- 5—Tearing down the dormitory now used to accommodate trustees and its replacement with a structure large enough to properly accommodate this class of prisoners.
- 6—Increase in prison medical staff providing for "close observation and frequent examination" of tuberculosis suspects and removal of positive cases to a prison sanatorium outside Columbus.
- 7—Providing adequate laboratory and diagnostic facilities with X-ray equipment.
- 8—Keeping prisoners at work at least a few hours daily in order to promote physical and mental health.

PEACHES BROWNING IS SWEET SIXTEEN; ENJOYS HUGE PARTY

Old Man's Darling Has
Bracelet For Birthday
Gift

NEW YORK, June 24.—It wasn't many years ago that birthdays to Frances (Peaches) Browning were much like they are to most little girls—they meant a party, a cake, some gifts and maybe a spanking with "one to grow on."

But things changed for Peaches when she married Edward Browning and became his Cinderella.

Today Peaches turned that charming age of sixteen and she celebrated it as few girls have celebrated that eventful day.

Diamonds—many of them, became her's. She had a party. She skinned home in her big blue automobile behind a liveried chauffeur and there hardly was a glory for a girl of sixteen that wasn't hers.

The party was last night at the Victory Club here. Scores of girls of Peaches age, many accompanied by their mothers; many men of Browning's age and folks in between spent hours dancing and dining and wishing Peaches many a happy birthday.

Peaches appeared soon after the crowd had assembled walking on the dance floor on the arm of Browning.

The gathering acclaimed her as she smiled her greetings. She was dressed in a gown of silver spangles on a background of red and the lights played brilliantly upon her. A silver bandage set off her pretty hair. Only a bandage on her neck to cover the scars of acid burns she received just before she married Browning and a new bandage on one arm, contrasted with the brilliance of her costume.

"Are you happy?" she was asked. "Happy?" she replied with a smile. "Why shouldn't I be? Look at these!" and she shook her graceful arm, about which were clasped four platinum bracelets glittering with diamonds.

It was Browning's birthday gift to this girl, who, on her last birthday was just Frances Heenan, a daughter of a nurse living in a modest apartment out in the Bronx.

Peaches whirled through the evening constantly the center of attention.

Gloria Sunshine Browning, adopted daughter of Peaches' husband, who is only about six years the junior of her foster mother, was there too. She played and seemed to enjoy herself—but the party was for her mama.

Browning was buoyant. He danced with Peaches and he danced with others.

Commissioners exercised their right to parole Graham in the care of Clarence Kelly, String Town Road, upon his promise to pay the court $3 per week until the remainder of his fine, amounting to about $60, is paid.

DELEGATES PARADE THROUGH COLUMBUS AT ENDEAVOR MEET

Madison County Boy
Wins Prince Of
Peace Contest

COLUMBUS, O., June 24.—Ten delegates, a parade of all delegates this afternoon through downtown Columbus and a general session tonight, were on the program of the Ohio Christian Endeavor Convention here today.

Tonight's session will be "Young People's Night," with Edward P. Gates, Boston, Mass., as the speaker.

A fifteen-year-old lad from Madison County is the winner of the prince of peace declamation contest begun in April of this year for the first time and brought to an end last evening.

That lad is Harold Thomas, a junior in the London Ohio high school and son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Thomas.

Young Thomas received $500 as a cash prize and a free four-year scholarship in either Wittenberg, Defiance, Bluffton, Ashland, Marietta or Wilmington College.

Susan Short, 16, a senior in Rayen high school, Youngstown was awarded second prize, $300 in cash and a two-year scholarship in any of the above colleges.

John D. Weller, of Tiffin, a freshman in the Tiffin high school won third prize, $200 in cash and a year's free scholarship in any of the above named colleges.

The contest was sponsored by the Ohio Christian Endeavor Society. Already plans are being made for another contest to be staged this fall. Five hundred and sixty five churches took part in the contest.

Miss Short said she will place her winnings in the bank; Weller wants to use his to attend a military academy this year while young Thomas will use his for educational purposes.

MEXICO GOES BATHING AS RITE OF ST. JOHN'S DAY OBSERVED

MEXICO CITY, June 24.—Today is universal bath day in Mexico. Throughout the republic men, women and children by going down to the streams or swimming pools and bathing are commemorating the day on which St. John the Baptist baptized Jesus Christ.

This custom of observing "St. John's Day" was originated by the Spanish in the sixteenth century, when all recent converts among the natives were taken to a stream of running water and baptized. The custom is believed to be peculiar to Mexico.

As the tradition began to lose its hold on the people, following the gaining of independence, the ceremony began to take on a more festive aspect and lost somewhat of its religious significance. In the nineteenth century, therefore, the day began to be celebrated by aquatic fiestas, held in streams where available or in pools in the larger cities.

Today it is being celebrated principally by the laboring and peasant elements. In Mexico City some of the bathers arrived at the pools as early as four o'clock in the morning. Admission to the pools is gained by the payment of fifty centavos. Prizes are offered by civic or athletic organizations for excellence in aquatic sports. In the old days a "medio"—half a real, which is twelve cents, was the price of admission to the pools.

In addition to being one of the principal Catholic holidays, St. John's Day is also the saints day for all persons named John.

WOMAN EVANGELIST SAFE WHILE POLICE SEEKING KIDNAPERS

Leader Of Angeles Temple
Says Three Gypsies
Suspects To Blame

By United Press
DOUGLAS, Ariz., June 24.—Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist, will leave here within the next twenty-four hours on a special train, returning to her flock of 25,000 disciples in Los Angeles with great pomp and ceremony according to plans of her mother Mrs. Minnie Kennedy.

It is planned to have Mrs. McPherson address her multitude of followers at the Temple in Los Angeles Sunday morning, Mrs. Kennedy said.

Chief of Detectives Herman Clyne and Deputy District Attorney Joe Ryan, of Los Angeles announced at the same time they will question Mrs. McPherson, regarding her alleged kidnapping.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., June 24.—Three gypsies, one of them a woman known only as "Rose" were hunted on both sides of the Mexican border today by officers who sought the answer to the strange case of Aimee Semple McPherson.

Mrs. McPherson, an evangelist and faith healer with a large following on the Pacific Coast, disappeared from Ocean Park, Los Angeles a month ago. Friends saw her clad in a bathing suit plunge into the surf and swim into the breakers.

She was not seen again until yesterday when she was found wandering in Agua Prieta, Sonora, across the Mexican border from here.

Brought here she told a remarkable story of having been kidnapped and held for ransom in a little hut, several miles from Agua Prieta. Two men and a woman were her kidnappers, she said. They are the trio now sought.

Police Chief Percy Bowden of Douglas, after hearing Mrs. McPherson's story, led the search for her alleged abductors. Co-operating with him were the authorities of Agua Prieta, while Detective Captain Clyne and his assistants from Los Angeles were expected here today to give their aid.

The officers went through the Mexican district of Douglas and nearby border towns and through the tattered, wind-swept adobe town of Agua Prieta, questioning scores as to possible knowledge of "Rose" and her two male companions.

"Rose," who was described by Mrs. McPherson as her guard, was the one the officers were most desirous of finding. They believed that from her the most could be learned.

"Rose," the officers were told, was a large woman, aged about forty with a mass of black, bobbed hair.

Meanwhile physicians believed Mrs. McPherson has not suffered any permanent harm from her experience. Her thoughts today largely were with her flock at the Angeles Temple Los Angeles, a great sectarian church of which she was the head.

"How wonderful it will be to be able to return to my people," she repeated.

She was told how hundreds of her followers after her disappearance had gathered day after day at the beach and prayed that she might come back.

"Oh, I love them more and more," she said. "Their faith and fidelity—how great it is. It will be like a resurrection from the dead—my return to them."

Mrs. McPherson reiterated to officers the story she had told newspapermen of her alleged abduction.

She said she had gone swimming—she was a strong swimmer and the water furnished her her chief recreation—and was in the water when some one came to her and told her she was needed to administer to a sick child.

"When the Lord calls me, I always go," she said. For that reason she had left the water, accepted a cloak which was offered her and went to a waiting automobile, led by the party who summoned her.

But instead of being taken to the bedside of the sick to give comfort, she was taken over miles of road, spirited across the Mexican border and finally arrived at the little hut on the desert, beyond Agua Prieta where she said she was held captive.

Threats were made against her and she heard her captors discuss, she said, demands for huge ransom to be made on her family and followers.

Tuesday, while left alone for a short time, she escaped she said, and wandered to the outskirts of Agua Prieta.

"I was not alone," she said, explaining that she considered a miraculous escape and the fact that she had not been seriously harmed in all the days of her captivity.

"The Lord was always with us."

CHAP WHO NAMES PULLMANS HAS SOFT JOB SAYS MAN WHO PICKS HOSE COLORS

You'll probably read in this paper some day that a woman told her husband to buy her a pair of hose, parment shade and he came home with a pair of hose—which constitutes grounds for divorce, she thinks. We all rather pity a poor male when shopping in a department store, but when we see him at the stocking counter, our worry is acute. For the selection of the right shade of women's hose these days, is an important matter and the wrong guess among the several hundred means disaster to a carefully chosen outfit.

One hose manufacturer has sent to a Xenia stocking buyer a list of about 200 shades of hose, all popular this season. They run the gamut of colors and shades, and what we would like to know is—where do all the new names originate? The person who thinks them up has a worse job than the one who christens Pullman cars.

Women are always safe this season if they choose some of the "nude" or natural shades in hose. Dark hose are seldom seen and black only when the costume demands it.

The most popular shades in Xenia are beige, French nude, mauve taupe, moonlight, blonde, sunmetal, cordovan, woodland rose, cinnamon, blush, rose blonde, flesh, rose beige and atmosphere.

Some of the odd names chosen

banana, ecstasy, bamboo, cinnamon and on they go!

Colors are growing more and more complicated and it is no longer possible to send friend husband with an order to bring home a pair of light gray stockings. The saleslady will rout him utterly by demanding if he wants "moonlight, shadow, silver, atmosphere or rose grey."

Hosiery manufacturers seem inspired to outdo each other in bringing out new shades and naming them. One firm advertises to retailers: "Sea spray-green as the crest of a wave or the new tendril of a vine; woodland rose—dusky roses in forest depths; mauve taupe—mauve, one moment, taupe the next, changeable as a chameleon—or a woman." Or it might be added to this list, as changeable as a woman's taste in hosiery.

RAISE FUNDS FOR CELEBRATION HERE

A committee appointed by Mayor John W. Prugh began a drive Thursday to raise a fund by popular subscription to defray expenses of Xenia's proposed Sequi-Centennial celebration next week.

Expenses of the three-day observance will be almost insignificant but a small sum of money is needed to have copies of songs printed and other incidentals. These copies will be distributed the night of the community sing program.

Members of the committee sought small donations from merchants Thursday. This method was decided upon at a business meeting Wednesday afternoon.

Children Play

Simple Melodies in 2 or 3 Lessons

Children express an entirely different attitude toward music lessons when they learn to play by this remarkable new method. Instead of tedious practice on exercises they play delightful melodies and make rapid progress.

The Melody Way of Class Instruction

costs so very little that every child can now have a chance in music. No piano is needed at home to start. This wonderful new method is widely endorsed by educators, musicians and teachers.

The instructions will be under the direction of Miss Harriet Scarff of Portsmouth, Ohio, who has been working along this line in connection with her public school music with success.

“Not Possible To Classify”

By Mack Sauer

A few years ago some poorly paid college professor who was living the life of a millionaire on a $150 per month salary, conceived the idea of keeping a budget. Now every bride wants to keep one.

A budget isn't a maid nor a pet of any kind, but it is a kind of bookkeeping system that is supposed to keep married folks prepared for rainy days.

When we were married my wife started keeping a budget. If I spent 5 cents for chewing gum, she would run home and put it in the budget. If I put a penny in a slot machine to see how much I weighed, it had to go in the budget. If I won five cents at matching coins, into the budget it went.

For two years I nearly starved to death, because my wife was so busy keeping the budget she found no time to keep me. We saw it was taking so much of her time that we thought of hiring a bookkeeper, but we found that plan would be too expensive. So we hired someone to do the housework and my wife spent all her time with the budget.

One fine thing about the budget was the fact that there was always money put away for everything. When our insurance bill came due, we went to the budget for the money—and it wasn't there. We had used it to pay our coal bill. So we borrowed it from the savings account. And so it was all the way through—our budget was a sort of robbing Peter to pay Paul idea.

When a circus came to town we found that we had no money for amusement that week, but would have the next. But to our surprise, when the next week came there was no circus. It had moved on. Our savings account didn't grow like we planned it would, because we hadn't figured the cost of the pencils needed to keep the budget.

Take a tip from me, June brides, and keep no budget. Keep a cow, a canary, and some chickens, if you like but keep no budget. Spend as you go, and enjoy life. It's more fun.

Health Hints
by the Father of Physical Culture
Dr. BERNARD A. FADDEN

The direct rays of the sun are a meiotic of great value for the hair, they impart a lustre and a richness of color which can be achieved in no other way. The best to sun the hair is immediately washing the scalp. Allow the rays to fall upon it while the hair is drying and polishing is being. The fine lustre and buoyance of the hair of many famous stars has often been common. Fed upon and they accredit the will to the frequency of the baths. Park to the great care taken other.

Re must caution you however, almost over-exposure of the hair to the direct rays of the sun for too long a period of time. For sunlight has a tendency under certain conditions to bleach the hair, or to fade a pronounced brunette. Fresh air is one of the greatest of all purifying agents as well as a wholesome tonic to the hair and scalp. To produce that delightful clean odor that comes from well kept hair, it is not only necessary to maintain scrupulous cleanliness of both hair and scalp, but also to treat the hair and scalp to frequent air baths. This will prevent the tendency of the perspiration to act upon the hair in the scalp and hair which is chief cause of the rancid odor is found in many otherwise kept heads. You should insist that their bath provided with a means of ventilation for, if no such means are provided, the heated air is confined, does much to bring about unhealthy condition of the hair and scalp.

The value of massage as a means of accelerating the circulation is limited by all. It has been used for centuries. Why should not massage be of great value in awakening to greater activity the circulatory system of the scalp? The most effective aid to strengthen the hair, by bringing blood to its roots in liberal quantities, is to pull it slightly over all the scalp. This gently raises the scalp from the skull and at every point where the scalp is thus raised and thickened the circulation is accelerated.

CHERRIES APLENTY GROWERS REPORT

"Can she bake a cherry pie, Billy boy?" If she can't it won't be because there are no cherries this season. The girl of the old song and lovers of the luscious pie will enjoy a "bumper crop" of cherries this year.

Trees are loaded with the scarlet fruit, which is of good quality and large size. Many trees have been unable to bear weight of the fruit and bent and broke beneath the strain.

The unusually large crop has resulted in a big demand for cherry-pickers, and anyone wanting a boy to pick fruit is asked to call the Social Service League. Fruit now ripe is of the earliest variety and other cherries will ripen on trees of a different variety later.

May Christie's Story Rushes To Plot Unfoldment

Twilight Kiss On Beach Plays Part In Following Chapter Of Gilded Rose

SYNOPSIS

ROSILYN PAGE, twenty-year-old daughter of an avaricious innkeeper, becomes dissatisfied with her life of drudgery. Her restlessness is enhanced by a secret admiration and "hero-worship" for LANDIS RIDGEWAY, good-looking, idle son of a once-wealthy family, who has been a frequent guest at the inn on the marshes of Long Island. Ridgeway's name had been coupled with that of LYDIA H. A. BROOK, a beautiful but cold and calculating woman in Landis' fast set and it is of her that Rosilyn is thinking with secret envy when Ridgeway unexpectedly comes upon her out on the marshes where she has gone for a breath of air after another day of hard and unappreciated work. The cynical Ridgeway is amused at Rosilyn's serious outlook on life.

CHAPTER III

Rosilyn's Awakening
THE man flung back his hand—some head and laughed.
"You little ignoramus! You don't know what you're talking about."
Rosilyn's breast heaved.
"I do, I do," she cried vehemently. "If I loved a man, money would have nothing, nothing in the world to do with my love. I'd go through fire and water for him. I'd be ready to—"
"Oh, no, you wouldn't. Not if your dream of going out into the world were granted, and you got the stamp on you that all the women have. You silly child, money opens every door, and is the very key to love." He gave his brilliant and disarming smile. "I know it. I learnt it in a very painful school. I can assure you."
"You have been—in love?" Her voice came in an anxious whisper. He shrugged his shoulders.
"Many times. Who hasn't?"
"You—you're surely joking?"
"No, I'm not. Oh, they weren't very serious episodes but disillusioning, all the same. I can look back on them with a degree of fortitude, if not with absolute equanimity." His eyes twinkled. "Would a recital bore you? Let me think. Among the first was an Italian contessa. I met her in Rome eleven years ago, when I was traveling with my tutor. She was wonderful, but too expensive."
Rosilyn's white brow wrinkled. "But that wasn't—love?"
He laughed again.
"Perhaps not—but an excellent substitute, while it lasted." Then: "You're much too young and unsophisticated to have me talk like this to you."
"Please go on." However disturbing to her peace of mind the revelation of his life might be, she yearned to understand it all, to sympathize. "You have never really been in love, then?"
There was a pregnant pause, filled with the quiet lapping of the waves against the jetty, and the poignant drift of tobacco smoke. And then the man said, rather grimly:
"Once, I'd rather not talk about it, if you don't mind. It still hurts considerably. I've cut loose from it, you see, I had to."

HAS DRIVING RIGHT SUSPENDED; COURT FINES COMPANION

Carl Pierson, 35, this city, had his right to drive an automobile suspended for six months and was given an additional fine of $25 and costs on a charge of operating a car while intoxicated by Judge S. C. Wright in Probate Court Wednesday.

He was paroled in the custody of his wife since his physical condition will not warrant his commitment in the County Jail. He pleaded guilty to the charge.
Stanley Thompson, 35, this city, arrested with Pierson, was fined $50 and costs by Judge Wright, when he pleaded guilty to intoxication. He was committed to the County Jail until he can arrange for payment.
Pierson and Thompson were principals in an auto accident on the Upper Belbrook Pike six miles from Xenia Tuesday night. Under the influence of liquor, Pierson, at the wheel of his wife's car, is said to have wrecked the machine against a bridge.
He will be required by the court to pay for the damage, amounting to $40 or $50.
Pierson's left wrist was sprained in the crash and Thompson hurt his left arm when he was thrown out of the machine.

Charles Nelson, 55, colored, 539 E. Second St., was fined $200 and costs and Ivan Cartwright, 52, Trumbull St., $100 and costs on charges of possession of liquor by Mayor John W. Prugh, Wednesday.

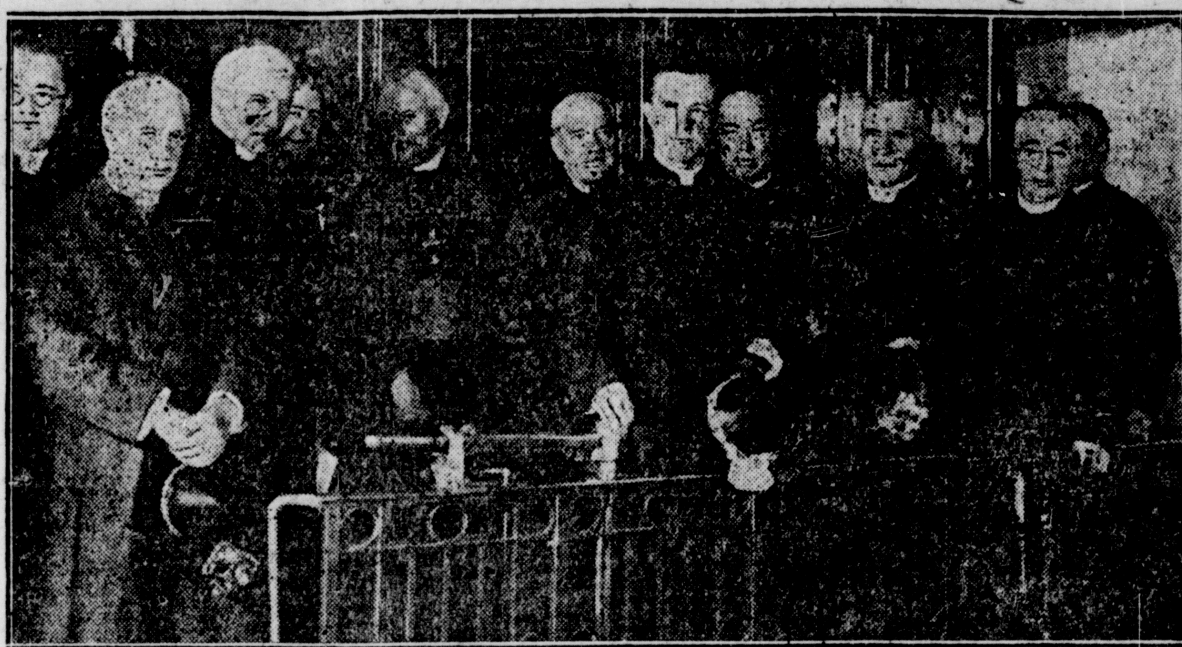

Nelson pleaded guilty but Cartwright was convicted at his trial in the afternoon after having previously pleaded not guilty when arraigned in the morning.

Nelson was arrested by police in a raid on his home Tuesday afternoon when officers uncovered a large quantity of home brew and wine concealed in a box. Cartwright was picked up along the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks an hour later. Police gave chase when he ran at their approach. He dropped a half-pint bottle in his flight, they said.

Million Gather For End Of Congress

MUNDELEIN CROWDS BREAK ALL RECORDS AS SERVICE CLOSES

Faithful Suffer Under Hot Sun At
Exercises

MUNDELEIN, Ill., June 24.—A singing, praying multitude of 1,000,000 people gathered together from all lands of the earth today answered the age old question, "if Christ returned to earth, what recognition would be given Him?"

In a babel of tongues, like of which has never before been heard in the new world, this great throng gave honor to the Blessed Eu- charist, which they believe is the actual living Christ. It was a demonstration surpassing any tribute ever paid the world's conquer- ing kings.

Banked on either side of a three mile "Via Gloria"—the road of Glory—circling a beautiful inland lake and reaching far back into the wooded area that shelters this seminary, prince, prelate and lay- men participated in this most mag- nificent of religious spectacles.

In sheer magnitude alone, this demonstration shattered every exist- ing record.

The number of persons, the dis- tance from which they came as pilgrims, the length of the process- ion and the number of actual par- ticipants outdid any ovation in his- tory.

The Seminary grounds, set down like medieval monastery and surrounded by the bustling civiliza- tion of twentieth century America were so densely packed at points of interest that it was im- possible for many to sit down.

Under a warming sun they stood reverently, singing and chanting in honor of their universal King. And still they came, thousands upon thousands, thousands they marched double quick time and twice abreast up the roads that led from the railroad station.

Traffic experts estimated that 400,000 had arrived by train since sun rise and another 500,000 came by automobile. Thousands had reached the grounds yesterday af- ternoon and during the night, camped out under the stars to await the great climax of the congress.

But it was not in size alone that today's spectacle paid honor to the Eucharistic king. It was the al- most unbelievable reverence dis- played by so great a congregation of people that attracted favorable comment from the princes of the church.

No shouting and loud demon- strations; no cursing of police of- ficers who struggled valiantly to keep the crowds within bounds. But everywhere there was sing- ing and the praises of God.

Everywhere there was praying and thanksgiving.

Little children joyously singing the age old chants of the church of their fathers were everywhere. The great babel of voices was stilled almost immediately as the procession of clergymen started moving from the chapel and the princes of the church took their places on Cardinal thrones which flanked the mammoth specially constructed, outdoor altar.

John, Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate to the Eucharistic Congress took his place on a throne one step higher than the others, sig- nifying his high ranking as per- sonal representative of Pope Pius XI.

Clouds, fleecy and white—the color of purity—appeared in the sky as the services were started. They brought welcome relief to the vast congregation which had been suffering under the hot sun. A bit of a breeze came up and tossed about the flags from their high standards.

The crowd pressed forward as fresh thousands were unloaded at the station just without the sem- inary grounds and sought in vain to reach positions from which to view the spectacle.

Checkers, who counted the crowd, said that 800,000 people were scattered along the route of procession before services start- ed. Another 200,000 packed the roads in all directions.

"A million people is too con- servative an estimate," said John Pendergast, who was in charge of the detail of Chicago police aiding in handling the crowd.

"The million number will be ex- ceeded," he said.

Asks Governor To Start Ouster Proceedings Against
Harper, Youngblood And Hogsett On
Charges Of Graft

COLUMBUS, O., June 24.—Attorney General C. C. Crabbe today demanded removal pro- ceedings be instituted against State Welfare Director John E. Harper, John T. Hogsett, chief agriculturist of the de- partment and J. B. Young- blood, Harper's consulting en- gineer.

Crabbe's demand was submitted to Governor Vic Donahey and was the result of charges of graft and collusion in connection with the proposed purchase of a site for the new northeastern Ohio insti- tution for the feeble minded.

Only yesterday the governor asked the prosecutors of Huron and Portage counties and pre- viously asked the prosecutor of Wayne County to conduct grand jury inquiries of negotiations car- ried on in the various counties looking to the purchase of a site. "If there was graft or collusion,"

COLUMBUS, June 24.—The state penitentiary here will be remodeled extensively to "relieve generally unhealthy sur- roundings and bad ventilation" if recommendations made to Governor Donahey by a committee of physicians are carried out.

The committee was commissioned several months ago to investigate conditions at the prison and report in full, with recommendations to the governor.

As submitted the report contains the following specific suggestions:

- 1—Complete overhauling of the lighting and plumbing system.
- 2—Demolishing of the two cell blocks and replacing them with

Old Man's Darling Has Bracelet For Birthday Gift

NEW YORK, June 24.—It wasn't many years ago that birthdays to Frances (Peaches) Browning were like the party, a cake, some gifts and maybe a spanking with "one to grow on."

But things changed for Peaches when she married Edward Brown- ing and became his Cinderella.

Today Peaches turned that charm- ing age of sixteen and she cele- brated it as few girls have celebrated that eventful day.

Diamonds—many of them, be- came hers. She had a party. She skinned home in her big blue au- tomobile behind a liveried chauff- eur and there hardly was a glory for a girl of sixteen that wasn't hers.

The party was last night at the Victory Club here. Scores of girls of Peaches age, many accompan- ied by their mothers; many men of Browning's age and folks in be- tween spent hours dancing and din- ing and wishing Peaches many a happy birthday.

Peaches appeared soon after the crowd had assembled walking on the dance floor on the arm of Browning.

The gathering acclaimed her as she smiled her greetings. She was dressed in a gown of silver spangles on a background of red and the lights played brilliantly upon her. A silver bandage set off her pretty hair. Only a bandage on her neck to cover the scars of acid burns she received just before she mar- ried Browning and a new bandage on one arm, contrasted with the brilliance of her costume.

"Are you happy?" she was asked.

"Happy?" she replied with a smile. "Why shouldn't I be? Look at these!" and she shook her gra- ceful arm, about which were clasped four platinum bracelets glittering with diamonds.

It was Browning's birthday gift to this girl, who on her last birth- day was just Frances Heenan, daughter of a nurse living in a modest apartment in the Bronx.

Peaches whirled through the eve- ning constantly the center of at- tention.

Gloria Sunshine Browning, adopt- ed daughter of Peaches' husband, who is only about six years the junior of her foster mother, was there too. She played and seemed to enjoy herself—but the party was for her mama.

Browning was buoyant. He danced with Peaches and he danc- ed with others.

WIFE SLAYER WILL BE ELECTROCUTED

OHIO STATE PENITENTIARY.
CLEVELAND, June 24.—Unless the governor or the state board of clemency intervenes, Frank Liska, wife slayer, will be electrocuted here tonight.

The governor's office, it was un- derstood, has turned a deaf ear to his plea.

The board of clemency was ex- pected to announce its decision at noon after considering evidence purporting to show that Liska killed his wife at the woman's own request.

Mrs. Liska was slain last year. She was choked to death and her body subsequently was found in the ruins of a burned chicken coop.

Liska asserted his wife had been unfaithful and that the woman, seiz- ed with remorse, asked him to dis- pose of her. The state charged he killed her during a jealous rage.

Liska, an Austrian who came to America several years ago, was calm this morning as the board of clemency deliberated his fate.

HAUGEN BILL FIGHT NEARING CLIMAX

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The long fight over farm relief reach- ed a climax today as the Dawes-McNary-Haugen bill, an entirely new legislative plan whereby farm- ers hope to market their surplus products at a profit, came before the senate for final action.

The bill giving federal farm board broad powers to buy and withhold surplus production of cotton, corn, wheat and hogs from the market when the surplus threatens to reduce prices below "reasonable levels" was scheduled to come to a vote shortly after 1 p. m.

There was the possibility that Vice President Dawes, who braved President Coolidge's displeasure to sponsor the Haugen bill, will be compelled to cast the deciding vote for the measure.

DELEGATES PARADE THROUGH COLUMBUS AT ENDEAVOR MEET

Madison County Boy
Wins Prince Of
Peace Contest

COLUMBUS, O., June 24.—Ten conferences, a parade of all de- legates this afternoon through downtown Columbus and a gen- eral session tonight, were on the program of the Ohio Christian En- deavor Convention here today.

Tonight's session will be "Young People's Night," with Edward P. Gates, Boston, Mass., as the speaker.

A fifteen-year-old lad from Madison County is the winner of the prince of peace declamation contest begun in April of this year for the first time and brought to an end last evening.

That lad is Harold Thomas, a Junior in the London Ohio high school and son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Thomas.

Young Thomas received $500 as a cash prize and a free four-year scholarship in either Wittenberg, Defiance, Bluffton, Ashland, Mar- ietta or Wilmington College.

Susan Short, 16, a senior in Rayen high school, Youngstown was awarded second prize, $300 in cash and a two-year scholarship in any of the above colleges.

John D. Weller, of Tiffin, a freshman in the Tiffin high school won third prize, $200 in cash and a year's free scholarship in any of the above named colleges.

The contest was sponsored by the Ohio Christian Endeavor So- ciety. Already plans are being made for another contest to be staged this fall. Five hundred and sixty-five churches took part in the contest.

Miss Short said she will place her winnings in the bank; Weller wants to use his to attend a mil- itary academy this year while young Thomas will use his for educational purposes.

HUSBAND'S SIGHT MAY BE RESTORED BY LEGACY

ELYRIA, O., June 24.—Fortu- nate has smiled on Mrs. Cassie Bogart, 68, and James C. Bogart, 72, her husband, blind for more than six years again may see.

Mrs. Bogart has inherited $80,000 from the estate of Ed- ward B. Jennings of Chicago, a relative who died in 1923 and the first thing she intends to do is to provide a specialist for her husband.

"We are confident his sight will be restored," Mrs. Bogart declared today.

Since Jennings death his es- tate has been involved in liti- gation. There was no will and a score of relatives have been waging court fights to obtain sizeable shares.

The tangle was finally untied and when final administration was made Mrs. Bogart received $80,000.

The Jennings fortune was founded in Chicago nearly 100 years ago by John D. "Corner Lot" Jennings, who introduced the ninety-nine year lease there.

Edwin B. Jennings, a son fin- ally received control of his fa- ther's estate and subsequently became a recluse, according to attorneys.

Jennings, despite the fact he amassed more than four million dollars, lived frugally and without modern comforts.

The Bogarts have six chil- dren all of whom live in Elyria.

BUYS TOLEDO PAPER

TOLEDO, O., June 24.—Paul Block of New York has acquired complete control of the Toledo Blade, one of the oldest newspapers in the midwest. Block, who owns the Duluth Herald, the Newark Star-Eagle and other publications, took over the interests of Barton Smith, president of the Blade Pub- lishing Company. The purchase had long been rumored.

MEXICO GOES BATHING AS RITE OF ST. JOHN'S DAY OBSERVED

MEXICO CITY, June 24.—Today is universal bath day in Mexico. Throughout the republic men, women and children by going down to the streams or swimming pools and bathing are commemorating the day on which St. John the Baptist baptized Jesus Christ.

This custom of observing "St. John's Day" was originated by the Spaniards in the sixteenth century, when all recent converts among the natives were taken to a stream of running water and baptized. The custom is believed to be peculiar to Mexico.

As the tradition began to lose its hold on the people, following the gaining of independence, the ceremony began to take on a more festive aspect and lost somewhat of its religious significance. In the nineteenth century, therefore, the day began to be celebrated by aquatic fiestas, held in streams where available or in pools in the larger cities.

Today it is being celebrated principally by the laboring and peasant elements. In Mexico City some of the bathers arrived at the pools as early as four o'clock in the morning. Admission to the pools is gained by the payment of fifty centavos. Prizes are offered by civic or athletic organizations for excellence in aquatic sports. In the old days a "medio"—half a real which is twelve cents, was the price of admission to the pools.

In addition to being one of the principal Catholic holidays, St. John's Day is also the saints day for all persons named John.

sies To Blame

By United Press
DOUGLAS, Ariz., June 24.—Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist, will leave here within the next twenty-four hours on a special train, re- turning to her flock of 25,000 disciples in Los Angeles with great pomp and ceremony ac- cording to plans of her mother Mrs. Minnie Kennedy.

It is planned to have Mrs. McPherson address her multi- tude of followers at the Tem- ple in Los Angeles Sunday morning, Mrs. Kennedy said.

Chief of Detectives Herman Clyne and Deputy District At- torney Joe Ryan, of Los Angeles announced at the same time they will question Mrs. McPherson, regard- ing her alleged kidnapping.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., June 24.—Three gypsies, one of them a woman known only as "Rose" were hunted on both sides of the Mexi- can border today by officers who sought the answer to the strange case of Aimee Semple McPherson.

Mrs. McPherson, an evangelist and faith healer with a large fol- lowing on the Pacific Coast, dis- appeared from Ocean Park, Los Angeles a month ago. Friends saw her clad in a bathing suit plunge into the surf and swim into the breakers.

She was not seen again until yesterday when she was found wandering in Agua Prieta, Sonora, across the Mexican border from here.

Brought here she told a remark- able story of having been kidnap- ed and held for ransom in a little hut, several miles from Agua Prieta. Two men and a woman were her kidnapers, she said. They are the trio now sought.

Police Chief Percy Bowden of Douglas, after hearing Mrs. McPherson's story, led the search for her alleged abductors. Co-operating with him were the authorities of Agua Prieta, while Detective Cap- tain Clyne and his assistants from Los Angeles were expected here today to give their aid.

The officers went through the Mexican district of Douglas and nearby border towns and through the tattered, wind-swept adobe town of Agua Prieta, questioning scores as to possible knowledge of the case or of the whereabouts of "Rose" and her two male compan- ions.

"Rose," who was described by Mrs. McPherson as her guard, was the one the officers were most de- sirous of finding. They believed that from her the most could be learned.

"Rose," the officers were told, was a large woman, aged about forty with a mass of black, bobbed hair.

Meanwhile physicians believed Mrs. McPherson has not suffered any permanent harm from her ex- periences. Her thoughts today largely were with her flock at the Angeles Temple Los Angeles, a great sectarian church of which she was the head.

"How wonderful it will be to be able to return to my people," she repeated.

She was told how hundreds of her followers after her disappear- ance had gathered day after day at the beach and prayed that she might come back.

"Oh, I love them more and more," she said. "Their faith and fidelity—how great it is. It will be like a re- surrection from the dead—my re- turn to them."

Mrs. McPherson reiterated to of- ficers the story she had told news- pappers of her alleged abduction.

She said she had gone swimming—she was a strong swimmer and the water furnished her her chief recreation—and was in the water when some one came to her and told her she was needed to admin- ister to a sick child.

"When the Lord calls me, I al- ways go," she said. For that reason she had left the water, accepted a cloak which was offered her and went to a waiting automobile, led by the party who summoned her.

But instead of being taken to the bedside of the sick to give com- fort, she was taken over miles of road, spirited across the Mexican border and finally arrived at the little hut on the desert, beyond Agua Prieta where she said she was held captive.

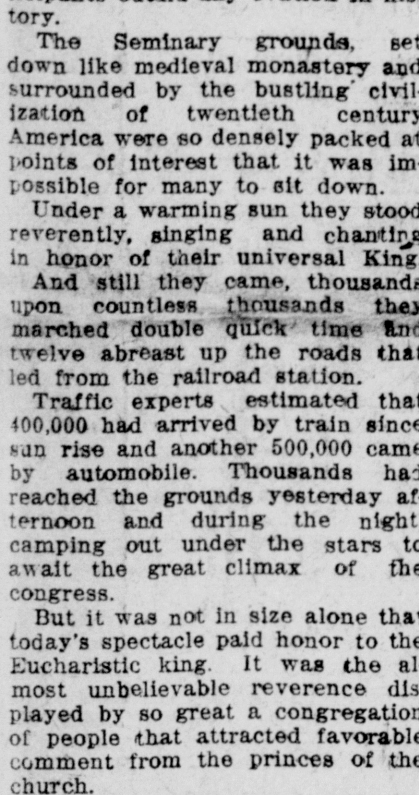

Threats were made against her and she heard her captors discuss, she said, demands for huge ransom to be made on her family and fol- lowers.

Tuesday, while left alone for a short time, she escaped she said, and wandered to the outskirts of Agua Prieta.

"I was not alone," she said, ex- plaining that she considered a mir- aculous escape and the fact that she had not been seriously harmed in all the days of her captivity.

$33,000 IN BONDS STOLEN FROM BANK

CINCINNATI, O., June 24.—Bonds valued at $33,000 have dis- appeared from the Second Nation- al Bank here, it became known today.

A. L. Shreve, cashier of the bank removed the bonds from the bank vault late yesterday. When Shreve reached his desk he found one missing and returned to the vault, leaving the bonds lying on his desk.

When Shreve returned the bonds had vanished and police today were without clues to the identity of the thieves.

MISS OHIO IS ILL

MT. VERNON, O., June 24.—Miss Dolores Oakes, who won the title of "Miss Ohio" at the 1925 state fair beauty contest and was later disqualified because of her youthfulness, is seriously ill at a hospital here following an opera- tion for mastoid trouble.

PRIMARY PROBER S INVESTIGATE REPORT BREWERS RAISED FUND

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The senate primary investigating com- mittee expected to find out today whether Pennsylvania brewers raised a fund of their own in the $3,000,000 senatorial race.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general coun- sel of the Anti-Saloon League has promised to furnish substantiation of his charge that those who de- sired modification of the Volstead act had accumulated a private purse to aid the wet ticket.

Wheeler said he would have the information on hand for the com- mittee as soon as officials of his organization can get there from Westerville, O. The officials, he contended in executive session with the committee, have informa- tion which led him to make his al- legation.

The committee authorized Wheel- er to summon his own witnesses and has thrown the onus of proof upon him.

Seven others have been called in connection with the stories that have come to the committee con- cerning charges involving fraud, forgery, loose money dealings and corruption in Pennsylvania.

tutes grounds for divorce, she thinks.

Priest's Collar Inspires Vest

This simple little frock of polka dotted blue crepe de chine borrows the idea for vest and ruffs from a priest's collar. They are white piquet and net.

acute. For the selection of the right shade of women's hose these days, is an important matter and the wrong guess among the several hundred means disaster to a carefully chosen outfit.

One hose manufacturer has sent to a Xenia stocking buyer a list of about 200 shades of hose, all popular this season. They run the gamut of colors and shades, and what we would like to know is—where do all the new names originate? The person who thinks them up has a worse job than the one who christens Pullman cars.

Women are always safe this season if they choose some of the "muted" or natural shades in hose. Dark hose are seldom seen and black only when the costume demands it.

The most popular shades in Xenia are beige, French nude, mauve taupe, moonlight, blonde, gunmetal, cordovan, woodland rose, cinnamon, blush, rose blonde, flesh, rose beige and atmosphere.

Some of the odd names chosen

banana, ecstasy, bamboo, cinnamon and on they go!

Colors are growing more and more complicated and it is no longer possible to send friend husband with an order to bring home a pair of light gray stockings. The sales-lady will rout him utterly by demanding if he wants "moonlight, shadow, silver, atmosphere or rose grey."

Hosiery manufacturers seem inspired to outdo each other in bringing out new shades and naming them. One firm advertises to retailers: "Sea spray-green as the crest of a wave or the new tendrill of a vine; woodland rose—dusky roses in forest depths; mauve taupe—mauve, one moment, taupe the next, changeable as a chameleon—or a woman." Or it might be added to this list, as changeable as a woman's taste in hosiery.

PASSING OF STONE FENCE

THE old stone fence is swiftly passing into oblivion with many other early American institutions, bringing sighs of regret from those whose poetic sense responds to symbols of the dead past. True there remain hundreds of miles of these unmortared walls that hedge in the highways and divide field and pasture but the mileage of these walls is steadily dwindling for many reasons.

Stone fences once served many uses. Most of them owed their existence to the fact that they offered a convenient way to dispose of the surface stones when the land was cleared for agricultural purposes. Stone fences abound most where the land had to be cleared of stones as well as timber before being farmed. In the early days when the meat supplies of the towns and cities were driven to market, often for long distances, it was the stone fence that kept the cattle, sheep and swine from overrunning the countryside and getting lost. And then many stone fences were built because stone was the only material available to the builders.

Forces working for the extinction of the picturesque piles of stone are modern methods of fence construction, which do not have the habit of unblinking down every year, the demand for stone for highways and building construction and the necessity of building fences of types less prodigal in the use of land than the thick stone walls.

When it was a new institution the stone fence, like the covered bridge, was probably considered a necessary obstruction marring the landscape, but time has made each seem to be a very part of the natural landscape until one feels their removal would detract from the beauty of the scene.

Aside from its picturesqueness the stone fence is cherished because of its associations with the Minute Men of Lexington and Concord, with the Battle of Gettysburg and the lending of its name to the famous Civil War general Stonewall Jackson.

IT COSTS TOO MUCH

NEXT year eleven nations will pay us more than $180,000,000 in war debts. That is more than the whole war for independence cost us, but just approximates the bills of three days' fighting in the last conflict. War is not impossible, while there are arms to fight it, and statesmen to practice secret diplomacy. But more powerful than peace plans and capital ship tonnage to prevent it is its expense. It is a business of increasing costs, and by the time we get through paying for the last, it is unlikely that we will be anxious to yoke ourselves down for the next.

THE CREATIVE SPIRIT

THE United States has been "accused" of being the richest nation on earth. Some foreign comment has been to the effect that money is all we care for. This is a mistaken viewpoint. The reason this nation is not only rich, but great, is simple—we all work over here. Not only do we work, but we make everything else work for us. We enjoy producing something useful.

Here in the United States we use forty times as much mechanical power as human power. In China, Russia and India, they use from two to four times as much human power as mechanical. That is the reason America is rich and that is the reason wages are high and opportunity great in this nation. High production per man tells the story of our high wages, short hours and modern conveniences in every home. If the rest of the world would try to follow our example there would be more happiness and less cause for wars and discord.

Today's Talk

THE NEXT TOWN

The man who stands still soon comes to realize that he is standing in his own shadow with towering deeds, done by others, shutting him away from the light.

Movement is the axis of life.

The salesman does his town, and if he does it thoroughly and well, even though he does not always sell up to his desires, does a good job. Then he passes to the next town fortified by greater courage and with a desire which masters him in his efforts.

Too many people live in the last town long after they have left it. Towns, jobs, enterprises must stand as entities—things apart. They must be taken one by one and handled with sincerity. Then when you pass to the next town you do so with a free mind and increased prestige.

Worries are something that can be left behind. They can be left in the last town. Just don't give them carriage beyond that! All!

He who grows lives in the job ahead, as well as in the one he holds. And when discouragement comes, dark and heavy, it's a good thing to think of the next town ahead and just say, slyly to oneself: "Well, there are better things in the next town!"

And if you don't like the town you live in, you always have the privilege of passing on to the next. Maybe you will fit better there anyway.

There is always freshness in moving in making new attempts, in getting away from the thing that has troubled you so much and seeking "new worlds to conquer."

But treat each town fairly. Do what you do with all your heart—always trying to work just a little better than the fellow who preceded you.

The next town may be YOUR town!

THE BIRTH OF GREATNESS

Who knows what a good life is or where Lies loss or failure in the plan.

One may be rags of hardship wear

And be no less a man.

Mary and Joseph did not seem

A couple richly blessed with grace.

Who neighbored with them would not dream

Their lofty place.

Yet Mary brought the Christ to birth

And none can tell the name or class

Of all the throng who came to earth.

That this might come to pass,

The humblest woman passing by

May still in glory have her share.

Her life, as Mary's did, may lie

In one child she may bear

And who can comprehend the span

Or count the links in splendor's chain?

God may take ages for his plan

One hero to attain.

RAISE FUNDS FOR CELEBRATION HERE

A committee appointed by Mayor John W. Prugh began a drive Thursday to raise a fund by popular subscription to defray expenses of Xenia's proposed Sesqui-Centennial celebration next week.

Expenses of the three-day observance will be almost insignificant but a small sum of money is needed to have copies of songs printed and other incidentals. These copies will be distributed the night of the community sing program.

Members of the committee sought small donations from merchants Thursday. This method was decided upon at a business meeting Wednesday afternoon.

RESERVES HITTING WELL WITH ACQUISITION OF NEW PLAYERS

Buoyant with the acquisition of four new players and last Sunday's easy victory over the Dayton Racers, the Xenia Reserves will oppose Waynesville next Sunday afternoon at Washington Park chuck full of confidence. Their winning streak will be extended to two games.

Reserves now have six regulars over the 300 mark, two of whom are batting .500 and three are above the 400 mark. Cyphers continues to lead at bat with a mark of .466 for those participating in more than one game. The team is slugging at a .305 gait. Here is how the individual players are hitting:

Children Play Simple Melodies in 2 or 3 Lessons

Children express an entirely different attitude toward music lessons when they learn to play by this remarkable new method. Instead of tedious practice on exercises they play delightful melodies and make rapid progress.

The Melody Way of Class Instruction

costs so very little that every child can now have a chance in music. No piano is needed at home to start. This wonderful new method is widely endorsed by educators, musicians and teachers.

The instructions will be under the direction of Miss Harriet Scarff of Portsmouth, Ohio, who has been working along this line in connection with her public school music with success.

Co-operation of citizens of Xenia and Greene County in connection with the Sesqui-Centennial celebration on next week in Xenia is asked by Mayor John W. Prugh's first official proclamation since assuming office. The proclamation reads: "All loyal citizens of Xenia and Greene County: The week beginning July 28 is set apart to celebrate the 150th anniversary of American independence. "I, John W. Prugh, mayor of the city of Xenia, request that on Monday at 11:11 a. m., daylight saving time, after thirteen strokes of the Court House bell, the oath of allegiance to our country be read and that all heads of departments, stores and factories read it to their employees. "Then after three strokes of the bell, all bells in the city and county should ring and whistles blow in honor of the ringing of Old Liberty bell in Philadelphia, Pa. "That evening at 7:30 o'clock, St. 1st time, we will gather in front of the Court House for a band concert by the O. S. and S. O. Home Cadet band and a patriotic speech by County Auditor R. O. Wead. "On Thursday evening, July 1, we gather in front of the Court House for a community sing which will include patriotic songs and old melodies led by all choirs in the city and county with Spencer Shank, principal of Central High School, director. Piano and orchestra accompaniment. "We should all go to church July 4 to hear patriotic sermons and music. Let us all renew our patriotism during this week. "Following is the oath of allegiance to be read: I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the republic for which it stands; one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

BERNARD MACADAM

The direct rays of the sun are a meiotic of great value for the hair, they impart a lustre and a richness of color which can be acquired in no other way. The best to sun the hair is immediately washing the scalp. Allow the rays to fall upon it while the process of drying and polishing is being. The fine lustre and brilliance of the hair of many four-leaf clover stars has often been compared upon and they accredit the will of prior condition of their hair as day to the frequency of the baths their to the great care taken othertended.

Re must caution you however,

against over-exposure of the hair to the direct rays of the sun for too long a period of time. For sunlight has a tendency under certain conditions to bleach the hair, or to fade a pronounced brunette.

Fresh air is one of the greatest of all purifying agents as well as a wholesome tonic to the hair and scalp. To produce that delightfully clean odor that comes from well kept hair, it is not only necessary to maintain scrupulous cleanliness of both hair and scalp, but also to treat the hair and scalp to frequent air baths.

This will prevent the tendency of the perspiration to act upon the in the scalp and hair, which is chief cause of the rancid odor is found in many otherwise kept heads.

One should insist that their hats be provided with a means of vention for, if no such means are provided, the heated-air is confined does much to bring about unwholesome condition of the hair and scalp.

The value of massage as a means of accelerating the circulation is limited by all. It has been used for centuries. Why should not massage be of great value in awakening to greater activity the circulatory system of the scalp?

The most effective aid to strengthen the hair, by bringing blood to its roots in liberal quantities, is to pull it slightly over all the scalp. This gently raises the scalp from the skull and at every point where the scalp is thus raised and thickened the circulation is accelerated.

Twilight Kiss On Beach Plays Part In Following Chapter Of Gilded Rose

ROSILYN PAGE, twenty-year-old daughter of an avaricious innkeeper, becomes dissatisfied with her life of drudgery. Her restlessness is enhanced by a secret admiration and "hero-worship" for LANDIS RIDGWAY, good-looking, idle son of a once-wealthy family, who has been a frequent guest at the inn on the marshes of Long Island. Ridgway's name had been coupled with that of LYDIA HARBROOK, a beautiful but cold and calculating woman in Landis' fast set and it is of her that Rosilyn is thinking with secret envy when Ridgway unexpectedly comes upon her out on the marshes where she has gone for a breath of air after another day of hard and unappreciated work. The cynical Ridgway is amused at Rosilyn's serious outlook on life.

CHAPTER III

Rosilyn's Awakening
THE man flung back his handsome head and laughed. "You little ignoramus! You don't know what you're talking about."

Rosilyn's breast heaved. "I do, I do," she cried vehemently. "If I loved a man, money would have nothing, nothing in the world to do with my love. I'd go through fire and water for him. I'd be ready to—"

"Oh, no, you wouldn't. Not if your dream of going out into the world were granted, and you got the stamp on you that all the women have. You silly child, money opens every door, and is the very key to love." He gave his brilliant and disarming smile. "I know it. I learnt it in a very painful school. I can assure you."

"You have been—in love?" Her voice came in an anxious whisper. He shrugged his shoulders. "Many times. Who hasn't?"

"You're surely joking?" "No, I'm not. Oh, they weren't very serious episodes but disillusioning, all the same. I can look back on them with a degree of fortitude, if not with absolute equanimity." His eyes twinkled. "Would a recital bore you? Let me think. Among the first was an Italian contessa. I met her in Rome eleven years ago, when I was traveling with my tutor. She was wonderful, but too expensive."

Rosilyn's white brow wrinkled. "But that wasn't—Love?" He laughed again. "Perhaps not—but an excellent substitute, while it lasted." Then: "You're much too young and unsophisticated to have me talk like this to you."

"Please go on." However disturbing to her peace of mind the revelation of his life might be, she yearned to understand it all, to sympathize. "You have never really been in love, then?"

There was a pregnant pause, filled with the quiet lapping of the waves against the jetty, and the poignant drift of tobacco smoke. And then the man said, rather grimly:

"Once, I'd rather not talk about it, if you don't mind. It still hurts considerably. I've cut loose from it, you see. I had to."

"Why?" "I had no alternative. She preferred—money—to the Real Thing, as you'd call it. She was wise. His lip curled. "I don't blame her in the least."

"You cared for her?" "Damnably." His strong white teeth gripped hard on the stem of his pipe, and a little silence fell between the two.

"He loves her still, he loves her still," a cruel little voice in the girl's consciousness was chanting, like a death-knell.

It was madness, this hopeless longing for a man to whom she could never be anything, even supposing there had never been that "some one else."

"Curious how loneliness gets a man, even in the crowds," went on the attractive, mellow voice. "As a kid I was always lonely, I remember. No brothers or sisters. My parents didn't hit it off, and for the most part they were off abroad, traveling in different directions, while I was left behind with nurses. I was an imaginative kid, and even then would dream about a magic someone who was going to round out life for me, one day, and make it wonderful. Afterwards, when I grew older, there were many times when I was sure I'd met her, only to discover I was chasing rainbows. The unconquerable hope, what will-o'-the-wisp adventures, only to mock me in the end. This that we call living is an ugly fever. But we get what we deserve. I'm told, I've been all kinds of a rotter and have paid."

Pity welled in Rosilyn's young heart and filled her eyes. "But that's all over," she breathed. "If you have paid, then you can start again."

"As the same man? Never! I'm sick to death of it all, I tell you. If it weren't for my mother, the only relative I have, I'd cut the cable and go off as a soldier of fortune to one of those tin-pot European wars, hoping to end my life, as certainly I should."

"I suppose it was partly the fault of the set in which I and my people have always lived and moved. Moneyed. Fast. You have to keep the pace. And I'd been brought up in the belief that I was as rich as any of them. No one encouraged me to work. Idle travel, idle pleasures that lead nowhere, the inventing of new ways of killing time. . . . these were my forte—" he gave a bitter laugh—"and the result today? The loss of faith in everything and everyone, chiefly myself. Boredom. Disillusionment. Satiety. And debt. Mountains of debt."

"Debt?" He could glimpse her startled face, a white blur in the deepening twilight. "But I thought you were so rich. The yacht out there—"

She nodded towards a small, expensive craft, riding near by at anchor. "A white elephant! I have sold it to Briscoe. And the country place must go, too. My mother is heart-broken, and I feel a brute. If only I had plugged away at my profession—I passed my examinations for attorney—then she still—who knows?—might have maintained her old position, her prestige. They matter to a woman so."

He rose suddenly with that swift grace of his, as though to put an end to conversation that had become too painful. Rosilyn rose, too. It was almost dark as they stood for a moment, the girl's face upraised to his.

"I am so ignorant," she stammered. "If only I could do something—say something—to make you happier—"

Impulsively he drew her to him. "I'm a good-for-nothing wastrel, and you're a sweet child. Forget me and my idiosyncrasies, and be happy!" Stooping, he planted a careless kiss on the tremulous young lips.

The effect was magical. He felt her slim young body slimp against him, and her heart—through the thin wrap she wore—go hammering against his chest. She was all palpitating femininity—no child, but a woman—an impressionable woman of volcanic fire. What storm was this he had awakened?

Then her figure stiffened, as, with a gasp, she drew away from him. "You—you had no right—" she stammered, choking.

"I beg your pardon. I had no wish to—to offend you. You seem such a mere sup of a child—you are a child! How old are you, Rosilyn? Not more than fifteen, at the most. . . . or sixteen?"

"I am twenty," she put a trembling hand up to her bosom to still the wild beating of her heart. It was like a prisoned bird, fluttering its wings against a cage. That kiss. . . .

"I didn't realize. . . . again I beg your pardon." He was the formal society man again. "Please forget it, and forget our talk. Let us go back to the inn. I think I hear your father calling you."

Silently they walked across the marshland. Once, Rosilyn stumbled, and he caught her arm to steady her. An electric current darted through the point of contact, wrapping itself about her heart, a searing flame.

But Landis Ridgway's thoughts were winging far away. Tomorrow: An Eventful Night

HAS DRIVING RIGHT SUSPENDED; COURT FINES COMPANION

Carl Pierson, 35, this city, had his right to drive an automobile suspended for six months and was given an additional fine of $25 and costs on a charge of operating a car while intoxicated by Judge S. C. Wright in Probate Court Wednesday.

He was paroled in the custody of his wife since his physical condition will not warrant his commitment in the County Jail. He pleaded guilty to the charge.

Stanley Thompson, 35, this city, arrested with Pierson, was fined $50 and costs by Judge Wright, when he pleaded guilty to intoxication. He was committed to the County Jail until he can arrange for payment.

Pierson and Thompson were principals in an auto accident on the Upper Bellbrook Pike six miles from Xenia Tuesday night. Under the influence of liquor, Pierson, at the wheel of his wife's car, is said to have wrecked the machine against a bridge.

He will be required by the court to pay for the damage, amounting to $40 or $50.

Pierson's left wrist was sprained in the crash and Thompson hurt his left arm when he was thrown out of the machine.

PAIR FINED AFTER LIQUOR CONVICTION

Charles Nelson, 55, colored, 530 E. Second St., was fined $200 and costs and Iran Cartwright, 52, Trumbull St., $100 and costs on charges of possession of liquor by Mayor John W. Prugh, Wednesday.

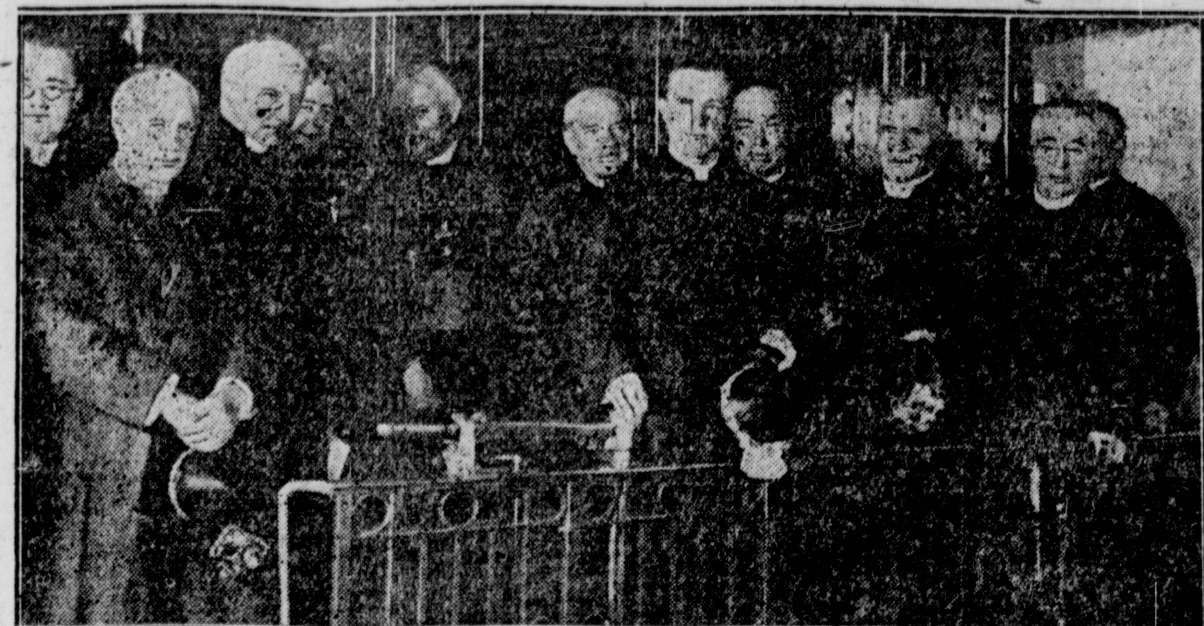

Nelson pleaded guilty but Cartwright was convicted at his trial in the afternoon after having previously pleaded not guilty when arraigned in the morning.

Nelson was arrested by police in a raid on his home Tuesday afternoon when officers uncovered a large quantity of home brew and wine concealed in a box.

Cartwright was picked up along the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks an hour later. Police gave chase when he ran at their approach. He dropped a half-pint bottle in his flight, they said.
